Description

Hivos' Renewable Energy programme focuses on governments and large corporations as well as people without access to modern forms of energy. Hivos and its partners demonstrate that renewable energy is not a pipe dream or an alternative, but simply the best choice. We do that by making simple, smart and clean off-grid technologies accessible to poor people in remote areas, like biodigesters, biomass briquetting and solar power systems, or mini-grids running on liquid biofuels, amongst others.

Biomass Briquette Scale up

Promoting market-based clean biomass technologies to increase the economic contribution of biomass, enable Kenya fulfil her Paris Agreement by realising emission reduction targets thorough the Nationally Determined Contributions (NDC) and create thousands of good quality-green jobs.
